2-MONTH NOTICE TO END TENANCY FROM LANDLORD TO TENANT FOR A MONTHLY TENANCY

Note: Does not apply to yearly or weekly tenancies

TENANT'S NAME(S) (full names as shown on the tenancy agreement).

RENTAL UNIT ADDRESS (this is also the address where this document will be either given personally or left for and mailed to the tenant for service) Note: If mailed (registered or regular mail), the notice is considered served 5 days after mailing.

LANDLORD'S NAME (full names as shown on the tenancy agreement).

DATE TENANCY ENDS (the tenant must be completely moved out no later than 1pm on this date).

SIGNATURE of LANDLORD (OR LANDLORD'S AGENT)

Date: _____

The notice must be served no later than the day before rent is due under the tenancy agreement to start the two months clock. [Example: If rent is due July 1, the two months notice would have to be served on or before June 30 and the months of July and August would represent the two month notice period. Thus the tenancy would end on August 31].

INFORMATION FOR TENANTS WHO RECEIVE THIS NOTICE TO END TENANCY

You have the right to dispute this Notice within 10 days of service by filing an Application for Dispute Resolution at the Residential Tenancies Office. (Note: only valid reasons under the Residential Landlord and Tenant Act (RLTA) will be considered).

If you do not file an Application for Dispute Resolution within 10 days after being served, you are presumed to have accepted the notice and must move out of the rental unit by the date set out in this notice (you can move out sooner).

INFORMATION FOR LANDLORDS WHO WANT TO END A TENANCY

If the tenant fails to move out of the rental unit, you can apply to the Residential Tenancies Office for an Order of Possession and a potential monetary order for reasonable compensation.

If the tenant applies to dispute this Notice, you can attend the tenant's hearing and ask for an Order of Possession.

INFORMATION FOR BOTH LANDLORDS AND TENANTS

- Keep copies of all Notices to End Tenancy and record each date and how the Notice was given or received.
- An error in this Notice or an incorrect move-out date on this Notice does not necessarily make it invalid. If the move-out date does not comply with the RLTA, the effective date is the earliest date that complies with the RLTA.
